Freedom, Slavery, and Absolutism Wilfrid
Laurier Univ. Press

This book explores the concept of freedom by reading the works of Corneille, Pascal, and Racine as political theories in the guise of literature. Within this framework, a certain model quickly becomes apparent, namely that of absolute sovereignty as the guarantor of freedom. The three writers under consideration share the view that freedom is ensured only by absolute authority rather than the absence of such authority. From Corneille, who modulates freedom through an erotic link to the monarch as a means through which the glorious individual is brought into the state's fold, to Pascal, who traces the liberation of the will via absolute submission to God, to Racine, for whom absolute submission to the most Christian king is the only route to political and personal salvation, Elmarsafy studies a politics of taking charge that differs markedly from the contemporary orthodoxy that privileges individual freedom.

A French Song Companion is an indispensable guide to the modern repertoire and the most comprehensive book of French mélodie in any language. Noted accompanist Graham Johnson provides repertoire guides to the work of over 150 composers--the majority of them from France but including British, American, German, Spanish, and Italian musicians who have written French vocal music. The book contains major articles on Fauré, Duparc, Debussy, Ravel, and Poulenc, as well as essays on Bizet, Chabrier, Gounod, Chausson, Hahn, and Satie, and important reassessments of such composers as Massenet, Koechlin, and Leguerney. The book combines these articles with the complete texts in English of over 700 songs, all translated by Richard Stokes, making it also a treasury of French poetry from the fifteenth through the twentieth centuries. The translations alone will prove invaluable to music lovers and performers; combined with the biographical articles, they become the ideal map for exploring this exciting and diverse repertoire. Translation Oxford : Oxford University Press

Composée d'anciens Seals de la marine américaine, la meute alpha forme une équipe ultra-secrète de métamorphoseurs dotés de pouvoirs psychiques, qui combat les plus graves dangers dans le monde. Et lorsque ce combat devient personnel, leur côté sauvage se déchaîne... Ryon Hunter peut voir des morts — des esprits qui le supplient de l'aider d'une manière qu'il ne peut comprendre. Il ferait absolument tout pour mettre un terme à son tourment, jusqu'à ce qu'un esprit magnifique se présente à lui avec une requête qu'il ne peut ignorer: Aidez-moi... je suis en vie. Cette femme est la biologiste de la faune Daria Bradford, qui souffre de blessures mortelles subies après une rencontre avec une louve blanche, et elle a lancé un appel à Ryon à l'aide d'un don psychique plutôt rare. Lorsque Ryon parvient à localiser Daria dans la forêt nationale de Shoshone, il est déjà presque trop tard. Le fait de la ramener au complexe de la meute Alpha pour la soigner entraîne une nouvelle complication: Daria est sa partenaire prédestinée et Ryon craint ce qui se produira lorsqu'elle découvrira ce qu'il est — et ce qu'il a dû faire pour lui sauver la vie. La plus importante menace demeure encore en cavale dans la forêt, semant impitoyablement la mort sur son passage. La meute Alpha se lance alors aux trousses de la mystérieuse louve blanche, déterminée à stopper la sauvage meurtrière — seulement pour découvrir que la créature la plus mortelle est celle qu'ils ne peuvent littéralement pas voir.

Transactions of the Royal Society of London BRILL
An account of the work, writings and career of Louise Bourgeois, who had a flourishing midwifery practice at the French royal court at the beginning of the seventeenth century. Bourgeois was notable as a successful and articulate woman practitioner and author. Perkins, who is an expert on French literature, has integrated into her account recent work of social historians on medicine: on the medical market place, on patient-doctor relations, especially between women and medical practitioners, and on the social construction of the body.

This book is a collection of articles which highlight the fact that good translation theory is based on information gained from practice. At the same time, good practice is based on carefully worked-out theory. The two are interdependent. The authors who have contributed are persons who know the importance of both theory and practice and the tension between the two. They are not only translators but also have long experience in training others. The articles cover a wide variety of topics grouped in five sections. The first presents four graphic descriptions of what happens when one translates. The second looks at aspects of the application of theory from the backgrounds of European and Asian translation practices. The third has excellent articles which apply theory to the fields of poetry, opera, drama, and humor. The fourth section provides four ways of putting theory into practice. The fifth gives language specific examples and the last section deals with the application of theory and practice to teaching in an academic context.

A collection of original essays by a team of leading Beckett scholars and two of his biographers, Companion to Samuel Beckett provides a comprehensive critical reappraisal of the literary works of Samuel Beckett. Builds on the resurgence of international Beckett scholarship since the centenary of his birth, and reflects the wealth of newly released archival sources Informed by the latest in scholarly, critical, and theoretical debates A valuable addition to contemporary Beckett scholarship, and testament to the enduring influence of Beckett's work and his position as one of the most important literary figures of our time The Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine Lulu.com "Asian Canadian Writing Beyond Autoethnography explores some of the latest developments in the literary and cultural practices of Canadians of Asian heritage. While earlier work by ethnic, multicultural, or minority writers in Canada was often concerned with immigration, the moment of arrival, issues of assimilation, and conflicts between generations, literary and cultural production in the new millennium no longer focuses solely on the conflict between the Old World and the New or the clashes between culture of origin and adopted culture. No longer are minority authors identifying simply with their ethnic or racial cultural background in opposition to dominant culture." "The essays in this collection explore ways in which Asian Canadian authors and artists have gone beyond what Francoise Lionnet calls autoethnography, or ethnographic autobiography. They demonstrate the ways representations of race and ethnicity, particularly in works by Asian Canadians in the last decade, have changed have become more playful, untraditional, aesthetically and ideologically transgressive, and exciting."--Résumé de l'éditeur.

Mark Sheridan, a descendent of R.B. Sheridan's elder brother, is 'stage-struck'. Though his theatrical ambitions are thwarted by a slight stammer, he joins Beerbohm Tree's company as an unpaid

'walk-on'. He tells the story of his two years in the company and his relationship with Esmond, a young actor. Interspersed with this narrative are flashbacks to his earlier life: his childhood in China, his schooldays in Paris, visits to London (with nightly visits to operas and plays), his university days in Cambridge, eighteen months in St Petersburg (where he witnesses the beginning of the 1905 revolution). TIME AND PLACE is about 'counterfeit presentment', the telling of truth through illusion, but it is also about the real world of sexuality and history on which the theatre feeds. It is both a picaresque novel, a sort of homosexual

Tom Jones, with the hero's encounters explicitly described, and bildungsroman, a young man's attempt to account for his life.
